

Recycling Rescuers

As part of a school textile recycling project I asked Brooke and Sara (The Recycling Rescuers) to put together and perform a workshop that would get across the message that all unwanted textiles can be reused or recycled and don't have to be sent to landfill. As part of this they also wrote and produced a children's book that supports the workshop messages and provides a means for the children to take the message home.

During this process we met on several occasions to discuss my requirements and so Brooke and Sara could update me on their progress and ensure that their work addressed my needs.

Throughout the whole planning process I always found Brooke and Sara to be professional, enthusiastic and reliable. They fully took on board the brief I gave them and came back to me with some very creative and fresh ideas that fitted perfectly with the messages I needed them to convey. They took initiative when appropriate, progressed things smoothly and delivered exactly what they had promised.

The books they produced were perfectly pitched for the audience they were aimed at, the content was accurate and lively and the overall look was bright and attractive.

They put together some fantastic interactive workshops that used lots of good visual examples to help to simplify some complicated concepts to make them accessible to the audience. The content of the workshops was varied so kept the children's interest throughout, gave them lots of opportunities to take part and effectively shared the importance of the messages it contained. The workshops were delivered with great enthusiasm and positivity which meant that the children all had a really positive experience, felt valued and received lots of encouragement to be actively involved.

Overall Brooke and Sara were really easy to work with and delivered exceptionally high quality ideas and outcomes. They were professional and positive throughout and left all they delivered the workshop to feeling inspired and informed. I would highly recommend them and thank them very much for all their hard work.

Tracey Mitchell

Waste Reduction Officer

Norfolk County Council